

Innovate today to prepare for tomorrow's digital economy ●

Challenges are emerging for traditional institutions operating in today's global markets—everything from rising operating costs, threats of obsolescence from new entrants to mounting technical debt associated with outdated legacy systems. Innovative leaders have discovered that by integrating distributed ledger technology (DLT) into their institution they can fundamentally transform how they operate and deliver greater value for their customers—turning these market challenges into opportunities.

R3 is a leading provider of enterprise DLT and services that enable the secure exchange of value in regulated industries where trust is critical. Distributed solutions developed on our platform Corda harness the “Power of 3”—R3's distributed trust technology, connected networks and regulated markets expertise—to drive transformation in digital finance.

As the world's first regulatory-compliant and scalable DLT platform, Corda is already trusted by leading institutions to automate business processes across entities, enable faster settlement, streamline reconciliation, and manage the lifecycle of digital assets and currencies.

R3 can help you realize the full potential of digital transformation.

Discover why hundreds of regulated institutions have chosen Corda to fuel the modernization of their critical infrastructure and drive greater efficiencies.
